LOS ANGELES, CA (May 11th, 201) Condor Capital Advisors, a privately-held Los Angeles-based commercial mortgage and capital markets advisory firm founded and led by Ron Kaminker, has changed its name to Quantinal Capital Advisors.

“Quantinal provides custom financial modeling and analytics to the commercial mortgage, real estate, structured finance and private equity industries. Our new name, Quantinal, a combination of the words Quantitative and Analytics, describes precisely what we bring to the table.”

Quantinal clients include Wall Street firms, investment banks, real estate opportunity funds, private equity funds, mortgage REIT’s, special servicers, B-piece buyers, loan originators, and other financial firms.

Quantinal has recently developed a sophisticated CMBS loan origination pricing, hedging, and securitization model and is discussions with many of the new entrants in to the CMBS conduit market as well as B-Piece underwriting system.

Quantinal also has a transaction practice to help raise mortgage debt and capital for real estate owners.

Before founding Condor Capital, Mr. Kaminker’s most significant accomplishments were being an early pioneer in CMBS having written some of the first CMBS models while at Drexel Burnham Lambert in the late 1980’s. Additionally, as a founding partner at Secured Capital, he created many of the first non-performing loan models and was instrumental in the development of the “Appendix H” DIV (Derived Investment Value) Model used by the government’s Resolution Trust Corporation (RTC)
